COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

On Aug. 17th and 18th the 4th annual Tax Collector's School was held at Colby College, which your tax collector had the privilege of attending. The program for the first day covered methods of collecting delinquent taxes and automobile excise taxes. The filing of a tax lien secures the unpaid real estate tax. Actually the tax is converted to a mortgage which has precedence over all other claims on the property. The redemption period runs for eighteen months from the date of filing with the register of deeds, the lien then automatically expires and title to the property is then in possession of the town. In case of personal property taxes an action of debt may be brought against a taxpayer, or a summons and warrant may be issued to a deputy sheriff, to be served on a taxpayer. If the taxpayer fails to settle when the time has expired after service of the summons he will end up in jail.

The second day the program consisted of settlement procedures and nuisance taxes, administration of the tax collector's office, and legal problems. Under settlement procedures forms were provided and explained how a collector should settle with the selectmen when he is about to leave town. As long as the collector remains in the town in which he received his commitment he will be a collector for the given year in which he was committed a tax list until he has settled in full, he cannot resign.

Nuisance taxes are the poll tax and any personal property or real estate tax less than $10. It costs just as much to enforce collection of a small tax as it does a large one.

Sincerely,
Harold L. Bean

Why Be Handcuffed to a one telephone home?

When an extension provides so much convenience at so small a cost

If you live in a "one phone home" you know that when the telephone rings, you have to leave whatever you're doing. The pointing in the basement, the children in the playpen and the dinner on the stove all must go untended while you run up and down to answer the phone. With convenient extensions, this problem is gone forever and you get more done too!

V. A. NEWS LETTER

Veterans planning to train under the Korean GI Bill this coming fall were urged today by Dr. Joseph Weltman, manager of VA's Togus Center, to get their applications in now, rather than wait until the last minute.

This same advice holds true for young men and women who intend to start school in the fall under the War Orphans Education Program.

By filing an application now, processing can be completed before classes start, Weltman pointed out. Any snags or special problems can be ironed out with time to spare. But waiting until the last minute—when VA regional officers may be swamped with applications—may risk delay.

Applications for Korean GI Bill training or for War Orphans Education may be obtained at any VA office.

VA estimates that a quarter of a million veterans will be in training this fall under the Korean GI Bill. Another 12,000 men and women are expected to be in school under the War Orphans program.

THE AMERICAN WAY

WE ARE NOT ANTI-UNION
by George Peck

(EDITOR'S NOTE: George Peck is Honorary Chairman of the Laymen's National Committee, sponsor of National Sunday School and Bible Weeks.)

Every so often we find it necessary to repeat what we have said so many times—We are not against labor unionism. In a recent column we wrote that we favored Right-To-Work laws—that we did not believe any man or woman should be forced to join a labor union in order to obtain or hold a job. As a result, history now repeats itself—a number of letters have been received charging us with being anti-labor unionism. And so once again, we find it necessary to re-state our longtime conviction regarding labor unions—We are not anti-union.

Unfortunately, some labor leaders have the foolish notion that if someone criticizes them or any union labor policies, that critic is anti-union. This definitely is a manifestation of emotional immaturity. These leaders should grow up. In fact, their attitude is most undemocratic. Democracy thrives on the clash of opinion and criticism is not necessarily unfriendly. On the contrary, criticism is very often creative.

Over the past two or three decades a dangerous conception has developed in the union labor movement, induced in large measure by the dictatorial element in union leadership. It is the idea that union members are the servants of their unions, while original intent of labor unions was that they should be the servants of their members. When unions were first organized in these United States, they conformed to the pattern set by the Founding Fathers and the Constitution that they drew up for us.

Labor unions abided by the principle—an original principle—a unique principle—which America gave to the world—that the citizen is the master and that the State is his servant. In line with this principle, the union member was the master of his union and the union leader was his servant. Union members have permitted this principle to go by the boards. They failed to exercise their rights—they permitted leaders to lead their unions who consider those unions as agencies to advance their own selfish interests to the detriment of their constituents whom they are intended to serve.

Laws can be passed by the Congress that will help to remedy this unhealthy state of affairs by curbing the power which certain labor leaders have assumed. But the real cure lies with union members themselves. They must insist that their unions get back to the principle upon which they were originally launched—that they, the members, are the masters of their unions and that their leaders are their servants. Let the union member ask himself these questions: "If my union is not serving my best interests, what good is it?" "Is the purpose of my union merely to furnish a vehicle upon which my leader can ride to dictatorship, unbridled power, to serve his own illegitimate, selfish interests instead of my own legitimate interests?"

If the union member's answer to these two questions is "No," we cannot see how his answer can be otherwise, then let him assert himself, join with his fellow members to oust from office or discipline his recalcitrant leader.

Unions were born to fight for the workers' rights—fair pay and good working conditions. They were necessary because there were some employer bosses who were ruthless—had no consideration for their employees. They took the whip away from the ruthless, selfish employer boss. But now the unions have doled out the whip over to the ruthless, selfish union boss. The unions have knocked out one group of tyrants only to set up another group even more tyrannical.

Union members must insist on real democracy in the conducting of their unions. They must say to their leaders: "Leadership is based on service. It is not a special privilege for you to build yourselves into arrogant supermen, serving your own selfish interests and paying us only the crumbs that fall from the table."

Let's rank and file should once again demand and elect leaders who will be happy to be their servants, not their masters. There are many such leaders available, simply waiting for the call to service. Then once again, this nation will have labor unions that really

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Stickney and Peter, Mrs. Charles Wiley and family, Lee Carver of Wichita, Kans., Mr. and Mrs. Kimball Ames, Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Pickett, Jr., and family of Pennsylvania.

That brings us back to what we said in the opening paragraph of this article: "We are not anti-union." We are simply "anti-labor union leadership." We hope and pray that union members will rise in their might to cleanse their ranks of this bad leadership.

FARM HOUSING REGULATIONS CHANGED

Under a recent change in the eligibility requirements for Farm Housing loans, a farmer who owns a farm that will annually produce for sale or home use at least $400 worth of commodities may, if he meets other eligibility requirements, be able to obtain a Farm Housing loan.

Previously, according to Elwyn R. Morrow, Farmers Home Administration County Supervisor for Oxford and Androscoggin counties, an applicant had to own a farm that would produce a substantial amount of the operator's income.

Farm Housing loans are made by the Farmers Home Administration and are used to construct and repair needed farm houses and farm service buildings. During the past three years, 39 loans totaling $281,950 have been advanced for this purpose in Oxford and Androscoggin counties.

Other eligibility requirements for Farm Housing loans remain unchanged. These requirements are that the applicant lacks the resources needed to obtain credit elsewhere, be a citizen of the United States, and have sufficient income from farm and other

MAKE YOUR FARM POND SAFE, SUGGESTS WARNER

"Make your farm pond a safe place for recreation." So urged today Mardis R. Warner, Extension Service agricultural engineer of the University of Maine.

Warner is vice chairman of the Maine Farm and Home Safety Council.

More and more farm ponds are being built in Maine each year, Warner said. Each owner of a farm pond must take the responsibility for making it safe.

The first rule of safety is that an adult must supervise recreation around the farm pond at all times. Never swim alone, fish alone, boat alone, skate alone, or play around the pond alone. If possible, the farm pond should be fenced so that children cannot play around it without supervision.

It's wise to post safety instructions for boating, swimming, and skating, said Warner.

THE ELECTRIC UTILITY STOCKS

The electric utility stocks, which for years have been considered conservative income-producing investment media, have in the more recent past taken on the aspects of growth issues insofar as the market action is concerned.

High quality stocks in this industry are now selling at price/earnings ratios varying from 15 to 20 and the average is in the neighborhood of 20. Historically this is very high. Coincidentally, yields have come down so that the average for a representative group of investment grade issues can be as low as 4% or a share under. This has been justified by the excellent record of the public utilities and by the outstanding outlook for future years. We believe, however, that today the best investments in the field are to be found in issues which are still selling at reasonable P/E ratios and which give adequate yields. Selected issues in this category should be included in all investment portfolios.

The Federal Power Commission has made an estimate of the rising use of electricity in the United States between 1955 and 1960. Their estimate is that in this period total use as measured by kilowatt-hours will triple. Even this estimate is considered by some to be entirely too conservative. There are those that look for a doubling by 1970 and a further doubling between that time and 1980, or a quadrupling by 1980. It is, therefore, evident that in the electric utility industry there are inherent growth characteristics. The stability of the industry is best illustrated by examining what

WEST PARIS EXTENSION WOMEN SPONSOR CHILD HEALTH CLINIC

A total of 92 children participated in the Child Health Clinic and Conference sponsored by the West Paris Extension group. This group cooperated with Miss Ruth Choate and Dr. Thomas Nangle, who examined the children. Thirty-seven were given booster shots, 9 vaccinations, 11 D. P. T. and Polio series, with 55 receiving the fourth polio shot.

This service has been the community project for this group for several years. They publicize the clinic, help with transportation, and assist with weighing in and care of the children during the day.

Mrs. John Diller and sons of Skowhegan visited several days this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cole.

BOY SCOUT FUND DRIVE VICE CHAIRMEN NAMED

Carleton F. Scott, Wilton, chairman for the Pine Tree Council Finance Campaign in Rangeley District, has announced that the following men will serve at District Campaign Vice-Chairmen: David Holden, Rumford; Orren R. Hurd, Livermore Falls; Carroll E. Valentine, Bethel; Davis Horn, Farmington; James Mills, New Vineyard.

In making the statement, Mr. Scott announced that each vice chairman will be responsible for securing a drive chairman in three or four communities. Some 30 towns in the Rangeley District are expected to take part in the annual Boy Scout Campaign which will kick-off Oct. 18. $116,547.00 is needed to operate the Boy Scout Program in the 10 southwest counties of Maine for 1961.

sources to pay farm operating and family living expenses and meet payments, when due, on his debts.

Applications for this type of credit may be made at the County Office of the Farmers Home Administration located in the Post Office Building in South Paris.

er. Also, safe swimming areas may be marked.

The Extension engineer suggested placing lifesaving devices, such as ring buoys, ropes and long poles, around swimming areas. Also, farm pond owners should allow in the water only persons who know how to swim. Finally he advised knowing accepted methods of artificial respiration.

TODAY'S Meditation

Thursday, August 25

Read Acts 5:17-24
Ye shall be witnesses unto me . . . unto the uttermost parts of the earth. (Acts 1:8)

The main business of the church, and the first business of every Christian, is to witness for the Lord. I heard Dr. Ralph Sockman say in a sermon at the Oxford Conference in 1951, "Some laymen just sit back and pay the bills, and some just sit back."

It is easy for us to "just sit back." My daughter was only six, when, coming home from a morning service, she said, "Daddy, are all those men at church preachers or just watchers?" Every Christian should be a preacher for Christ, but too many of us are just watchers.

We witness by our words. We may become false witnesses by what we fail to say for Christ as much as by what we do say. We are to witness by our works.

Doing this is more than lip service. The condemnation in the parable of the Great Judgment is for what people failed to do.

We serve Christ by serving others. Above all, we witness by our worth. Earth may ask, "What have you?" Heaven may ask, "What have you done?" God asks, "What are you?" What one is dominates what he has and determines what he does.

PRAYER: Eternal God, Thou art the source of our power. Help us to hear Thy voice commissioning us to witness for Christ. Help us to be true witnesses in what we say, do, and are. For our Redeemer's sake. Amen.

COUNTRY FLAVOR

SUMMER WOODLAND

When life is too much with you and the elbow-rushing friction of the marketplace creates tension, go to a summer woodland. In its peaceful sanctuary, there is nourishment for the heart.

Find a grove where the trees grow tall and you can walk on a soft carpet of decaying leaves. The interlocked branches overhead remind one of arched cathedral aisles. On a quiet, sunlit day, golden shafts sift through the leaves above, painting soft-hued patterns on the leaf-carpeted floor. Sometimes one sees small saplings with succulent stem and oversize leaves, trying desperately to catch enough sunlight to make life-giving chlorophyll.

Perhaps a chickadee will come around and chant its optimistic song; perhaps a rabbit will lope slowly away; a moose or partridge and her brood may walk across a clearing. In an evergreen grove, there is always muted haunting music as the Green Ladies play their lyres. There is a pleasant, resinous fragrance from the spruces, pines and hemlocks.

Each human being needs time to be by himself. Each has corners in his heart that need refilling in a peaceful environment. It is not given to all men to have legal ownership of a woodland, but it is possible for each to own a favorite woodland in his heart. Go to a woodland in summer. The harvest for the heart is something that cannot be reckoned in the coin of the realm.

Whether we want it or not, we pay now for almost unlimited government—a government which limits our lives by dictating how we are fed, and clothed, and housed; how to provide for our old age, how the additional income, which is the product of our labor, shall be divided among us; how we shall buy; how we shall sell; how long and how hard and under what circumstances we shall work. There is only scorn for the one who dares to say the Government shall not be infinite. — General Douglas MacArthur.

AIR FORCE INVESTIGATION BOARD EXTENDS THANKS FOR NEWRY'S ASSISTANCE

The Selectmen of Newry have received the following letter of appreciation for the help given by the townspeople after the crash of the KC97 tanker plane in which five men lost their lives on the night of June 27.

Headquarters 380th Bombardment Wing (M) SAC United States Air Force Plattsburgh Air Force Base, N. Y. 12 August 1960

Board of Selectmen Township of Newry Bethel, Maine Dear Sirs:

I would greatly appreciate it if you would publicly convey my appreciation to the members of your community for the cooperative and helpful spirit displayed after the recent crash of one of our aircraft in your township.

Such assistance as that given by Mr. Bartlett in locating portions of the aircraft, by Mr. Powers through his service station near which our base camp was located, and by the owner of the field that we used as a landing area for our helicopter are typical of the many instances where the fine people of your area helped us during our investigation.

Please accept our thanks and be assured that without this aid, our investigation would have been severely handicapped.

Sincerely, Lester E. Richardson Colonel, USAF President, Accident Investigation Board

BOYS SAVE LITTLE GIRL

Sons of former Bethel residents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bryant and Mrs. Charles Chapman, are hailed as heroes. The following is quoted from a Connecticut newspaper:

George Bryant, 12, and his cousin, William Roberts, 13, both of Thompsonville, Conn., are credited with averting a possible tragedy Tuesday when they rescued a two-year-old girl trapped in mire waist deep in a swamp near the Green Manorville. Little Jennifer Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Brown, was lost for nearly an hour after she wandered off from her home with her four-year-old brother, Russell. The boys happened to hear her cries when they were walking through the woods. They pulled her to safety from her muddy predicament. Both boys are members of families which moved to Thompsonville this summer from Maine.

A TRIBUTE TO JOHN H. CARTER

Some wise person has said that the only way to get ready for immortality is to love this life and live it as bravely, faithfully and cheerfully as we can. And this is the way our departed neighbor John has been living for more than seventy years.

No man has ever taken civic responsibility more seriously nor has done it more efficiently. He was an eager and earnest worker in all of the places he so cheerfully and creditably served. The board of town officers, the trustees of Gould Academy and the West Parish Congregational Church will feel his loss.

He delighted in singing and his rich baritone voice in church choir or congregation gave pleasure to all.

John was an expert land and boundary surveyor. His knowledge of local geography, derived from his boyhood in this area and his familiarity with county records made his work in land survey much sought after for with his long experience he brought to his task more than technical skill.

Following a simple funeral service at his church, where a profusion of flowers testified to the love and esteem of relatives and friends, he was buried in peaceful Middle Intervale where he was born and which he always loved. The pallbearers, Augustus, Richard, Stanley and Paul Carter, carried him to his eternal rest beside the majestic old church guarded by the rolling Oxford hills.
